

Sample Travel Insurance Policy - ClaimWise Demo

Section 1: Definitions

"Trip" means the covered travel itinerary identified on the Declarations Page, beginning on the scheduled departure date and ending on the scheduled return date.

"Covered Reason" means an event specifically listed in Section 2 that permits Trip Cancellation or Trip Interruption benefits.

"Emergency Medical Treatment" means treatment required for a sudden and unforeseen illness or injury occurring during the Trip.

Section 2: Trip Cancellation and Interruption Coverage

This policy reimburses prepaid, non-refundable trip costs if the Trip is cancelled or interrupted for a Covered Reason, including: documented illness or injury of the traveler or a family member that a physician certifies makes travel inadvisable; death of the traveler or a family member; a natural disaster making the destination uninhabitable; and involuntary job loss of the traveler occurring after the policy was purchased.

Section 3: Emergency Medical and Evacuation Coverage

This policy covers Emergency Medical Treatment received during the Trip, including hospital, physician, and prescription costs arising from a sudden illness or accidental injury, up to the limit shown on the Declarations Page. Emergency medical evacuation to the nearest adequate medical facility, or repatriation, is covered when certified as medically necessary by the treating physician.

Section 4: Baggage and Personal Effects Coverage

This policy reimburses the policyholder for baggage or personal effects that are lost, stolen, or damaged by a common carrier during the Trip, subject to a per-item sub-limit shown on the Declarations Page. Any settlement received directly from the airline or common carrier for the same loss will be deducted from the amount payable under this policy to prevent duplicate recovery.

Section 5: Exclusions

This policy does NOT cover: (a) treatment or complications arising from a Pre-existing Condition unless a Pre-existing Condition Waiver was purchased within the required timeframe after initial trip deposit; (b) injury or loss arising from participation in extreme or adventure sports, including but not limited to paragliding, skydiving, scuba diving beyond recreational certification limits, and mountaineering, unless an Adventure Sports Endorsement is attached; (c) cancellation due to a general fear of travel or a change of mind not tied to a Covered Reason ("cancel for any reason") coverage is only available if separately purchased and shown on the Declarations Page); (d) losses resulting from the policyholder's intoxication or illegal activity.

5.1 Extreme Sports Exclusion: Injuries sustained while participating in extreme or adventure sports activities are excluded from Emergency Medical coverage unless the Adventure Sports Endorsement was purchased and is reflected on the Declarations Page.

Section 6: Required Documentation for Claims

To process a claim, the policyholder must submit: (1) a completed claim form; (2) proof of the Trip cost and cancellation/interruption circumstances (e.g. physician's note, death certificate, airline documentation); (3) itemized medical bills and proof of payment for medical claims; and (4) a property irregularity report (PIR) from the airline and any settlement documentation for baggage claims.

Section 7: Claims Process

Upon receiving a completed claim submission, a claims examiner will review the documentation and issue a coverage determination within 20 business days. All coverage determinations are preliminary and subject to confirmation by a licensed human claims adjuster before final payment.
